IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Information Analytical System – SCIENCE INDEX

MIPP would like to bring to your attention the analytical product of the Electronic Scientific Library SCIENCE INDEX which is an information analytical system, built on the basis of the Russian Science Citation Index (RSCI), offering a range of additional services for authors of scientific publications, research organizations and publishers.

The main objective of SCIENCE INDEX is to cover all publications of the Russian scientists as well as to correctly assess them on the basis of citation. More than 3,500 Russian academic journals, which are systematically processed in RSCI, together with articles in international journals, as well as other types of scientific publications (monographs, conference proceedings, patents, theses, research reports, etc.) are taken into account.

The system allows to:

- View a publications list of organization in RSCI with the ability to print and analyze it with the various parameters;
- Monitor and make corrections in a publications list of organization in RSCI;
- Identify an organization in publications in RSCI;
- Add publications of organization which are not present in RSCI;
- Add authors which are not present in the author index in RSCI;
- Specify information about the employees in the author index in RSCI;
- Add not only articles in academic journals, but also monographs, articles, conference proceedings, patents, reports, and other types of academic publications;
- Enter information about the structure of the organization (departments, laboratories, faculties, departments, etc.) and number of employees in each department;
- Analyze the publication activity and citation in the organization;
- Analyze and evaluate the performance of individual employees through a wide range of indicators;
- Place in RSCI full texts of publications for which the organization has the appropriate rights to create its own electronic repository of academic publications of the organization;
- Flexible configuration of access to full texts placed at the platform (open access, access from computers in your organization only, access to certain categories of users or organizations, fee-based access, archival storage without opening access, etc.).
